To Whom It May Concern,

I am gladly writing this letter of recommendation for Çelik Köseoğlu. Çelik is an undergraduate student in the Department of Computer Engineering at Bilkent University. I have had the opportunity to work with Çelik for the Spring 2016 semester, as a lab assistant in my course, CS114 Introduction to Programming for Engineers.

Çelik has been extremely professional in his role in the labs. As an undergraduate student, he conducted himself in a mature manner, interacting with students on the basis of mutual respect. Çelik dealt with and problems in the lab effectively and efficiently, and as instructors we could trust that the labs were under control when we were not there. Çelik, along with his colleagues in the lab, was proactive in suggesting and applying tools for evaluating the labs. He took initiative to prepare well-designed documentation that can be used by lab assistants and instructors for future labs.

I am pleased with the work done by Çelik and his friendly and professional attitude. I would not hesitate to recommend him for any position to which he applies.

Sincerely,

Lori Russell Dağ
